

Food Safety and Animal Well-Being

This section of the CLPP is designed to use existing, nationally-recognized programs that meet the criteria for the CLPP. ISDA recognizes the value of these programs for the industry, producers, consumers, new markets and international opportunities. Therefore we embrace these existing programs under the umbrella of the CLPP and encourage producers to participate.

The Food Safety and Animal Well-Being Section address areas of animal comfort and housing, animal care, animal body condition and movement scoring, animal health programs, record keeping and best management practices. Animal well-being is a critical aspect of animal husbandry.

To complete this section of the program, please verify completion from your industry program to ISDA with date of certification and next renewal date.

The Food Safety and Animal Well-Being Section includes the following:
